

VICE-PRINCIPALS PIMLICO ACADEMY

It is proposed that the Pimlico Academy will come into being in September 2008, occupying the current school's building in the first instance. By 2010 the school will have been entirely rebuilt, and will include a brand new community library facility.

The proposed sponsor is Future, a charity specifically set up to widen opportunities for young people. We believe in extending life chances for all young people, and giving them the skills, confidence and opportunities to succeed in life. We believe there are no limits to what young people can achieve.

Although the existing school is currently in special measures, the new Academy would inherit many positive characteristics, including a very diverse student body and a strong reputation for music.

We are now looking for two exceptional Vice-principals, one to start after Easter and one to start in September. As Vice-principals, you will work with the Principal-designate to create a highly aspirational, innovative and successful learning environment.

We will expect an impressive track record of improving teaching and learning and raising standards, and you should be able to offer a vision for a contemporary curriculum that will enable all learners to enjoy their education and achieve to the best of their ability. Experience of developing learning approaches that enable students to learn in a calm and disciplined environment, and the ability to lead teachers and maximise performance, will also be essential.

For an informal and confidential discussion please contact Peter Addison-Child or Corrina O'Beirne at Navigate by phone on 0844 800 5300 or visit our site at www.pimlico-future.co.uk. Closing date: 1st February 2008.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPALS

PIMLICO ACADEMY
WESTMINSTER
UP TO £60K

We are looking for three exceptional Assistant Principals to work closely with the newly appointed leadership team to create a highly aspirational, innovative and successful learning environment.

It is proposed that the Pimlico Academy will come into being in September 2008, occupying the current school's building in the first instance. By 2010 the school will have been entirely rebuilt, and will include a brand new community library facility.

Although the existing school is currently in special measures, the new Academy would inherit many positive characteristics, including a very diverse student body. The school has developed a strong reputation for music; its sixth form provision has received good comments from inspectors; and it delivered its best GCSE results ever in 2007, with 50% of students gaining at least 5 A*-Cs.

We will expect an impressive track record of improving teaching and learning and raising standards, and you should be able to offer a vision for a contemporary curriculum that will enable all learners to enjoy their education and achieve to the best of their ability. PRINCIPAL, PIMLICO ACADEMY

We are seeking a dynamic and inspirational Principal for the new Pimlico Academy. This is a role that will appeal to exceptional senior school leaders who have a strong track record of success in challenging circumstances. We are looking for a leader who shares our belief that there is no limit to a child's potential, a leader who helps every child strive for the highest level of individual success and who knows that the lives of students can be transformed by providing them with a first-class education.

The proposed sponsor is Future, a charity specifically set up to make a real difference to the underprivileged young, which supports a number of charities that transform the lives of the young people they serve. Future strongly believes that all children can be successful if they are given the right support.

The Academy will open in September 2008, replacing Pimlico School, and will move into new buildings in September 2010. The Academy will be located less than a mile from Westminster/Whitehall and accordingly this will be a very high profile job. A generous remuneration package will be offered to the right candidate.

For an informal, confidential discussion, please contact Peter Addison-Child or Corrina O'Beirne at Navigate by phone on 0844 800 5300 or visit our site at www.pimlico-future.co.uk Closing date: 9 November 2007.
